Everyone Needs a Hand to Hold on to

The yearbook staff and the senior class would like to dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Benz and Mrs. Peterson. Through the past years they have helped us and kept us together. They have devoted an enormous amount of time and effort to us. They have always been there for moral support and have always looked out for our best interest.

We will always remember Mrs. Peterson for her exciting stories of her trips to Mexico and her generous giving of herself.

We will always remember Mrs. Benz for her constant concern for others.

The class of '84 will always love you both. Peace be with you. We'll miss you more than you'll ever know!

Rock, Rock 'til You Drop

Lawrence Academy students had a great time at the first mixer held on September 16. It was a clear and hot day, and the high school enjoyed themselves swimming and dancing in the sun. A group of teachers and seniors battled for championship in a water volleyball game. Though it was close, the teachers came out on top.

The junior high also had a superb time that day. They rocked and rolled at a dance party held in the gym. Seventh grader Liz Kok said, "The food was great and I met a few new people." Lorie Feuerbacher agreed: "I had a great time!"

SENIORS

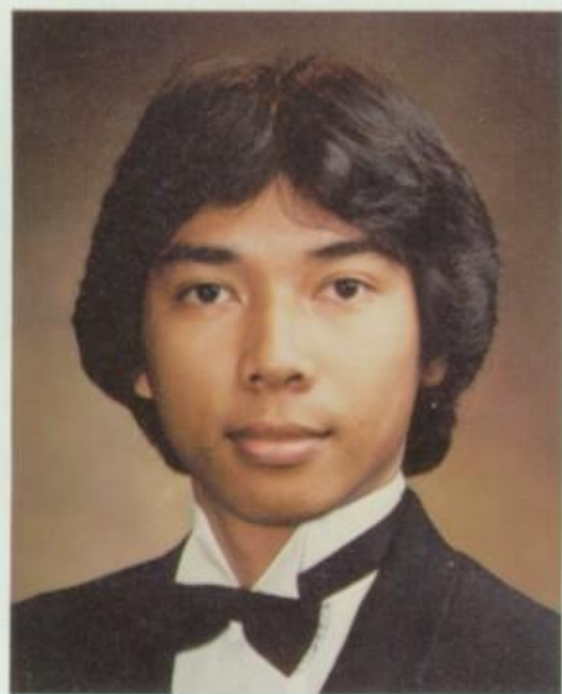

Up Where We Belong

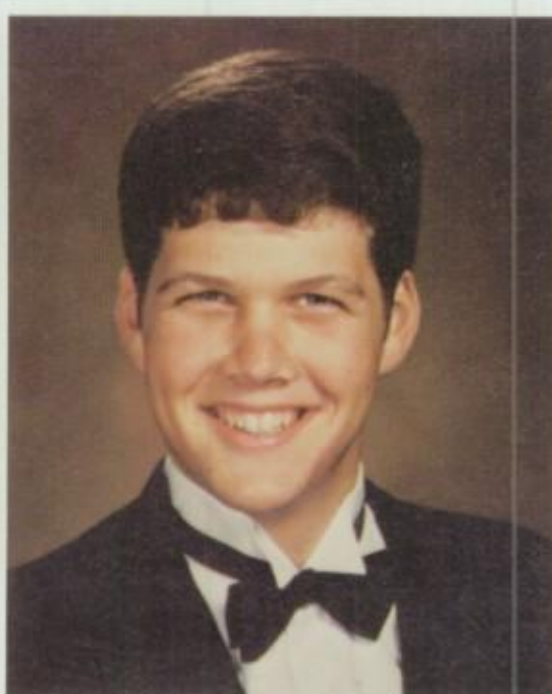

The class of '84 was a class of high achievers. They were a special class because although they were divided by their individuality, they were still family in their common goal: success. Asked what she thought about her class, senior president Frances Palacio said that she felt that, "The senior class has gotten really close. We have different interests, but we have the goal of getting through this year successfully while having fun doing it."

The senior class was not all seriousness, however. "Go-Go" girls Lisa Gates, Traci Hironaka, and Monica Ibarra commented that although the class of '84 worked hard, they still knew how to party.

The senior officers made this year a memorable and enjoyable experience for the class of '84. They dedicated a lot of their time to planning fundraisers, dances, the senior carnival, and a very successful prom. Senior secretary Julie Haselden commented that, "The seniors finally showed some spirit". Kathie Gassett, senior treasurer, agreed and added that, "This year was a lot of fun. We planned activities that we will always remember."

JUNIORS

It's Not Easy Being Green

The 1983-84 junior class of Lawrence Academy was many things, but above all, it was unique. The juniors worked hard at studying, and they worked hard at playing. They loved to have fun, but they also excelled in academics.

Teacher Karen Hockemeyer described the junior class as "kind, considerate, and lovable." Indeed, this was true. They thought about other people and their feelings, they were willing to give, and hence, they got much in return. If there were another name devised for the class of '85, it would be the "junior family".

The juniors: they were special silhouettes of the fine adults they are becoming.

The 1983-84 junior class officers were strongly united, and it was this bond that allowed them to succeed as never before. Through doughnut sales alone the juniors increased their already substantial treasury tremendously. They also put on the highly successful Sweetheart's Dance in February. Junior class President David Riveness commented that the class proved to be "a very promising and exciting bunch of people." Vice-president Jennifer Boatman agreed, and said that she saw the junior class growing closer through "cooperation and love for one another."

SOPHOMORES

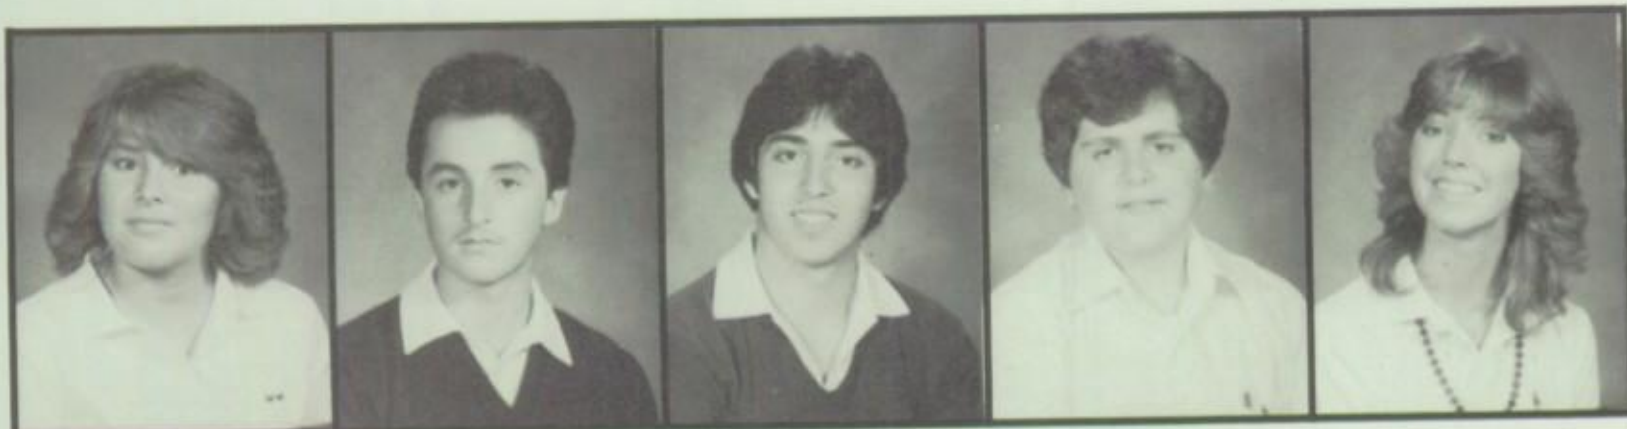

Friends Forever

In the two short years that the sophomore class has been together, they have formed a warm, fun-filled friendship. They were a very united and close-knit group, easily seen in the tight circles they formed at lunch!

The 1983-84 sophomore class was made up of bright, talented and creative individuals. They often demonstrated their talents in sports, music, and drama. They were growing as individuals, growing up, and growing together. The class of '86 —a class definitely going places!

SEVENTH GRADE

Faithfully

The seventh grade class started out the 1983-84 year as a fairly fragmented group. They didn't seem to blend well, and frequently felt themselves "pushed around". As the year progressed, bonds grew stronger, and, as Jenny Adamian said, "We're real good friends." Edgar Francisco saw the class as "joyful". Ean Mayberry found the class "awesome", and Jeff Werthman said the group was "radical"!

They were "rockers", they were great students, and they were full of spirit. The class of '89—on its way to the top!

CELTICS

Rock 'n' Roll High School

This year was a real success for the Academy, with great assemblies and dances. An excellent rally in November featured an aikido demonstration, and the December assembly brought us the outstanding music of the Madrigals.

The Halloween, Sadie Hawkins, and Sweetheart dances were all great and attracted more students than ever before.

Thanks to all those who participated and helped to make this year successful and the best ever.

Twist of Fate

Every year at Lawrence, students are nominated to twelve categories, some of which vary from year to year. Some old standards remain, like the "Most Memorable" category.

After nominations, curiosity and excitement build as votes are cast, tallied, and winners announced. Photographs are then taken to ensure each winner a place in Lawrence history.

Through these awards, we see the uniqueness of Lawrence Academy students. Congratulations to all the 1983-84 Academy Awards winners. You are the best!

Girls Just Wanna Have Fun

The 1983-84 cheerleaders and song girls showed great spirit and enthusiasm. We were very proud of our cheerleaders, who won the Northern California Regionals and went on to compete in Texas. Tina Vieira spoke for all when she said, "We've shown California that we can be number one!" Our song girls showed outstanding rhythm and spirit by dancing through the year. Talented teams!

All Night Long

This year's Sweetheart Dance, put on by the junior class, was an enormous success. The dance took place in the gym on Friday, February 10. Audio TH provided the music. The student body elected the King and Queen of the dance, and six princes and princesses to complete the royal court. Winners were presented with flowers.

There was an excellent turnout for the dance, and a great time was had by all. "Sweet Dreams Are Made Of This!"

Wrapped Around Your Finger

The junior ring ceremony this year was probably the most emotional and important event on the junior calendar. Who could ever forget the roses, the rings brilliantly flashing in the soft candlelight, or the gentle rustle of the girls' dresses? The significance of this yearly event is two-fold. First, the rings themselves are symbolic of not only the Academy, but more importantly of the time spent here, the friends made, the tears as well as the laughter. Secondly, the event is a turning point, a golden token highlighting the transition between youth and adulthood. It is a step the juniors took in accordance with their spirit, boldly and brightly.

SPARTANS

Rebel Yell!

The Spartans started the year off with a successful mixer to welcome everyone back. At Halloween, the Spartans participated in the costume and pumpkin-carving contests. Later in the year they got into the Christmas spirit with the door decorating contest. They held a great Christmas dance and later, a successful graduation dance. Laura West said, "I think we've really become closer this year." Other junior high school students agreed, and said 1983-84 had been "awesome".

Jump!

The 1983-84 Spartan teams had great seasons. In basketball, the boys' varsity team was a powerful one. Starters were mostly eighth graders, with the exception of Tom Carey. They ended their season with a 16 win, 4 loss record. The Spartan "B" team was equally spirited and played well.

ALL TOGETHER

The Waiting

The cast of "Picnic" worked very hard for three months to prepare for opening night. Rehearsals were usually four days a week, one to two hours each day.

The stage crew was busy from play try-outs to the closing of the curtain at the last performance. They built sets, painted, and worked with the lights.

When opening night finally arrived, backstage was busy with nervous performers and frantic stage hands. The frenzy was worth it—the play went perfectly!

I Sing The Body Electric

The music department did exceptionally well this year. Members of the high school and the junior high school performed at highly successful winter and spring concerts. Under the direction of music director Miss Prescott, the high school choir was better than ever, providing inspirational music at all masses. The choir also showed its talent in singing more contemporary music. The rock band continued outstanding performances at rallies and concerts which showed they are growing as a group. Seventh graders also had a chance to show their musical spirit at the concerts, which were well-attended and warmly welcomed. All in all, music at Lawrence is only getting better and better!

If You Could Read My Mind

This year the library made major media improvements. Librarians Carol Manoukian and Joanne Falconer acquired a new Apple computer and hundreds of new volumes for our shelves. The computer corner was extremely popular.

Our superbly-staffed library with its state-of-the-art materials continued to be the place to go for research, recreation, and relaxation.

The 1983-84 school year was a good one for the honors program, with more students than ever joining the NHS and CSF. Both organizations require outstanding achievement in scholarship, service, and citizenship. Obviously, not everyone can reach the goal of membership in these organizations, but the rolls show that these groups are growing at Lawrence Academy!

Congratulations to all members!

Our World 1983 - 1984

1983 was a year of transition and 1984 promised to be full of great achievements and exciting events.

In music, we were influenced by a variety of artists. One of the most prominent performers was the multi-talented Michael Jackson, with his hot-selling album "Thriller". Culture Club also plunged into the spotlight with their unique style of music. With Boy George as their lead singer, how could anyone not be captivated? Def Leppard, Duran Duran, and Quiet Riot were also in the public's ear.

There were many inspirational movies and television shows released. "Flashdance", one of the movies, left us with an energetic spirit, and "Risky Business" put us in the party spirit. "The Day After", a controversial docudrama about nuclear war, made us take a closer look at reality.

Several deaths in the past year shocked Americans. Among these deaths were Jessica Savitch, well-known anchor-woman, and Dennis Wilson, drummer for the Beach Boys. We also commemorated the death of John F. Kennedy. We will

1. A Korean Air Lines 747 was shot down by a Soviet missile, killing all 269 aboard.
2. In a scene from "The Day After", Jason Robards plays an irradiated doctor searching for his home.
3. America went crazy over Cabbage Patch dolls, which came with adoption papers.
4. Jessica Savitch's death shocked the nation.
5. ROLLING STONE listed the top ten albums of 1983.
6. Thousands protested the January release of convicted killer Dan White, set free after less than five years in prison.
7. Jennifer Beals was an instant success in the movie "Flashdance".
8. The nation remembered John F. Kennedy on the 20th anniversary of his assassination.
9. The music world was saddened by the death of Beach Boy Dennis Wilson.

miss these individuals and cherish their achievements.

In politics, we faced many tragic problems. Lebanon and Grenada left us with a desire to achieve peace throughout the world. Nuclear arms continued to pose a major obstacle to that peace.

This year we crowned Vanessa Williams Miss America, the first black woman to gain that title. It was considered a victory for all Americans.

1983-84 has been a year of turmoil and progress. When we look back, we will remember the good as well as the bad. We wish the class of '84 a prosperous and fulfilling future.
